The Business of Conservation – Conservation Easement Seminar

Presented by the Atlantic Coast Conservancy

February 25th, 2016

Benson Alumni Conference Center Wake Forest University Winston Salem, NC

Registration is now open for the Business of Conservation seminar. Join industry leaders to learn more about how conservation easements can be effective vehicles for land-use control and sources of liquidity. This one day seminar will offer a comprehensive overview of the due diligence associated with modern day conservation easements: tax considerations, team members and other business dealings, documentation of conservation values, current appraisal techniques, transaction structuring pitfalls and legal defense.

Who Will Benefit? Landowners, developers, accountants, attorneys, appraisers, natural resource planners, financial planners and wildlife resource managers will benefit from this informative seminar.

CLE continuing education credits have been approved for the State of Georgia. (North Carolina continuing education CLE credits are pending approval).
